

KATIE RAY WERNER

CONTACT

kwnerner@larsonking.com
651.312.6576

PRACTICE AREAS

Product Liability
Complex Torts
Business Litigation
Professional Liability

Katie Ray focuses her practice on products liability, mass tort, professional liability, and business litigation matters. Prior to joining Larson • King, Katie Ray clerked for the Honorable Judges Matthew E. Johnson, Diane B. Bratvold, and Elizabeth G. Bentley at the Minnesota Court of Appeals. Katie Ray graduated magna cum laude from the Belmont University College of Law, where she served as the Submissions and Transcripts Editor of the Belmont Law Review. During law school, Katie Ray worked as a law clerk for the Tennessee Innocence Project and externed for the Honorable Jill Bartee Ayers of the Tennessee Court of Criminal Appeals. Katie Ray received her B.B.A. from Belmont University in Nashville, Tennessee, where she studied music business and graduated first in her class. Before going to law school, she worked in the music industry in Nashville, assisting with royalty tracking and distribution for a publishing company and record label. Outside of her practice, Katie Ray enjoys writing songs and playing music, cheering on the Minnesota Vikings, and spending time with her dog, cat, and husband.

LAW SCHOOL

Belmont University College of Law, magna cum laude Belmont Law Review, Editor Mock Trial

COLLEGE

Belmont University, Bachelor of Business Administration, summa cum laude

ADMITTED

Minnesota

MEMBER

Minnesota State Bar Association Minnesota Women Lawyers